DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY STATE OF SOUTH DAKOTA.
LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

Hon. Frank M. Byrne, Governor,
The Capitol, Pierre, South Dakota.

Sir: Herewith I hand you the compiled returns of the Third State Census of South Dakota, taken as of May 1, 1915, pursuant to the requirements of the Constitution, and Chapter 63 of the Laws of 1905.

Faithfully,

DOANE ROBINSON,
Sec'y and Sup't.

Pierre, August, 20, 1915.

THIRD STATE CENSUS OF SOUTH DAKOTA, 1915.

The Third State Census of South Dakota was taken as of May 1, 1915, by the assessors acting as ex-officio enumerators, under the general direction of the Secretary and Superintendent of the Department of History, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 63 of the Laws of 1905. For the printing and expense incident to the work preliminary to this census the legislature of 1913, appropriated the sum of $2,000, and for the expense of the compilation etc., the legislature of 1915 provided a further sum of $3,500.

A population register for each township or other minor civil division was provided and in addition 810,000 cards were supplied, the plan being to list all of the people in the registers and to provide an index card containing detailed information pertaining to each individual. These cards are in the following form:

1915	Name -----	Age -----
Card No. -----	County -----	P. O. -----
Sex -----	Town or Township -----	Ward -----
Color -----	Do you own your home or farm.
Married -----	Yes -----
Single -----	No -----
Widowed -----	Occupation -----
Divorced -----	Birthplace -----	Ancestry -----
Read -----	Father's birthplace -----
Write -----	Mother's birthplace -----
Blind ----- Deaf -----	Extent of Education ----- Graduate of -----
Insane ----- Idiot -----	Military Service. Civil War ----- Mexican ----- Spanish -----
If Foreign Born	State -----	Regiment ----- Company -----
are you	Maiden name of wife ----- Year married -----
Naturalized -----	Church affiliation -----
Years in U. S. -----	Signed -----	Assessor -----
Years in S. D. -----	This card becomes a permanent record.

It will be observed that the cards call for some extra-statutory information. They were prepared in this form upon the advice of the attorney general who held it was entirely proper to assemble this important information under the general powers conferred by statute, the importance of the record justifying the additional labor involved. After the compilation of the information these cards were carefully alliterated in index form so that as a by-product of the census the state possesses a complete card index of all of her people, supplementing the very valuable index obtained from the Second Census. The experience of the past ten years demonstrates that this index of the population with the vast fund of personal information embraced in it is exceedingly valuable, a value that is augmented with each passing year.

With the experience secured by the superintendent in handling the second census the methods used this year were less experimental and the results more satisfactory, and it was possible to announce the complete results of the enumeration of the population within thirty days of the completion of the enumeration and of the agricultural enumeration in less than sixty days from the time the assessors completed their work.

THE POPULATION.

General Results—The total population of the state was found to be 582,765, an increase of 128,141 over the Second Census, 1905, but 1,123 less than revealed by the Federal Census of 1910. The cause for the slight loss since 1910 is due to the fact that the census of 1910 was taken when the homestead movement into the trans-Missouri region was at the crest. In a great measure the homesteaders who located at that time did not remain to cultivate their lands but left them after securing title from the government. The growth of population in the eastern portion of the state is most gratifying and the fact that gains are recorded in practically every minor division where there exists cause to expect an increase is the best proof of the efficiency and integrity of the present count. The county auditors are entitled to great credit for the interest and care shown in the census of their several counties and the assessors have been faithful and efficient.

Growth of the Towns.—The cities and towns continue to gain in population over the rural communities. In 1900 only 26.5 percent. of the people of South Dakota resided in incorporated places, in 1905, there were 33.1 percent, in 1910, the percentage was the same as in 1905 due to the rush to the homesteads which at that time was at its height and exactly kept pace with the towns, but in this year, 1915, 211,801 South Dakotans, or 36.3 percent of the total population live in incorporated municipalities.

Among the subjoined tables will be found all incorporated places alphabetically arranged with the population of each.

The rank and population of the places having more than 1,000 people is as follows:

1. Sioux Falls.....	20,929	20. Mobridge	1,551
2. Aberdeen	11,846	21. Elk Point	1,546

19. Webster	1,640	38. Groton	1,028
		39. Desmet	1,014

Foreign Population.—The percentage of foreign born persons grows progressively less at each census and South Dakota is becoming more and more, distinctively a state of native born people. Foreign immigration has practically ceased; in fact very few foreigners have come into this state directly from abroad in the past twenty years. During the homestead rush of 1906-1910, a good many foreign born persons came, chiefly from other states, but these did not as a rule remain so that the total number of foreigners rose from 89,534 in 1905, to 100,568 in 1910, to again recede to 90,487 the present year. The percentages to the whole population have fallen at each census as follows:

1870, 31.7; 1880, 34.0; 1885, 31.0; 1890, 27.6; 1895, 26.0; 1900, 22.0; 1905, 19.7; 1910, 17.5; 1915, 15.5.

From the tables showing period of residence it will be observed that more than 56 percent of our foreign population has resided in the United States more than 20 years and more than 43 percent of it has resided in South Dakota for more than 20 years. Less than 10 percent has resided in the United States under five years.

Ancestry.—More significant from the sociological point of view is the blood and traditions of a person, than is the place of his birth, and it was determined, as far as possible, to learn the ancestry of the people of South Dakota. In addition to the desirability of knowing the traditions of the people inhabiting the state there was the further reason for this action that a very considerable number of our people are natives of Russia, though of pure German blood and antecedents; from every point of view they are German, but the federal census and writers not conversant with the real situation class them as Russians. With the special view of classifying this large element of our population where it should properly be classed, each individual was asked to disclose his ancestry to the enumerators. The result is satisfactory so far as families which have immigrated in recent generations and we are able to show in a general way the parent stocks from which our population is derived. The disclosure is interesting and valuable and perhaps has never before been undertaken in any census, federal or state. Those classified as American come from families so long settled that knowledge of foreign origin has been lost. This statement likewise applies to those classed as Canadians. Chiefly, those returned as Russian are German. The considerable number classed as "Other nationalities" are chiefly of mixed ancestry which could not be conveniently classified. The table gives the details by counties. The aggregates are as follows:

Ancestry	Number	Percent of whole Pop.
African	322	0.05
American	137,331	23.3
Austrian	3,123	0.5

School Children.—An interesting table and perhaps the best test of the completeness of this census is table No. III, showing the number of persons of school age in the state. The annual school census is always taken with care for upon it is apportioned the school moneys to the several districts. It is not unusual for school boards to pay a premium to enumerators for each name listed in excess of the maximum of the previous year. The school census for 1915, including colored children and the children of citizen Indians totals 173,656 as returned to the state commissioner of School and Public Lands as the basis for the apportionment of school monèys for the ensuing year. This third State Census returns a total of 175,092 white persons of school age or if the colored persons and Indians were taken into consideration about one child to each school district in excess of the number returned by the school census.

Voters.—The census returns 169,419 male persons more than twenty-one years of age. That is to say, the total number of voters in the state is equal to 30.1 percent of the population.

Military Age.—There are 129,724 males more than eighteen and under forty-five years of age, a number that would constitute a rather formidable army were South Dakota to be invaded.

Literacy.—Table XVII shows that the total number of white illiterates is 3,134, or 0.72 percent of the population above ten years of age. This is unquestionably the lowest rate of illiteracy anywhere. In the Federal Census South Dakota suffers in the matter of literacy because the large class of illiterate Indians are included in the Federal tables.

Extent of Education.—Table XVIII showing the extent of education of all persons over 18 years is a new venture in census making, and the result is interesting and gratifying. 269,052 persons have a common school education; 27,345 have been educated in High Schools; 3,178 have Normal School education; 7,371 have had some college training and 5,006 are college graduates.

Home Tenure.—Table XIV showing the number of persons owning their homes is not very satisfactory or conclusive because of a misunderstanding of instructions by many enumerators. The analysis of the returns show that 111,220 persons more than eighteen years of age own their own homes, while 228,460 such persons are not owners of their homes. It was intended that this information should be supplied only by heads of families, but some of the enumerators returned the husband and wife and sometimes the children of a family as owners of the home so that results secured are not particularly significant.

Conjugal Condition.—Table XV shows the conjugal condition of our people. The most significant feature perhaps pertains to divorce, there being but 1,195 divorced male persons and 1,081 divorced female persons in the state, indicating that the commonwealth is not seriously menaced by the divorce evil. The number of unmarried males over eighteen years of age exceeds the number of unmarried females by 34,071. The number of widowed women exceeds the number of widowed men by near 4,000.

Church Affiliation.—Table XVI is also a new venture in census making. It does not attempt to show the actual membership of the various churches but each person was permitted to indicate to what church he is affiliated. This includes the non-member children of church members and many persons who belong to church societies but are not in regular membership. The remarkable feature of the table is that nearly one-half of the entire population of the state do not profess affiliation with any church organization.

Occupations.—This table, No XVII, covers all persons over ten years of age, and shows that practically the entire population of the state is usefully employed.

Specific Occupations.—Table XVIII devoted to specific occupations is an interesting revelation of the manner in which the population of the state is employed in each county and the totals indicate that no special line of business is overloaded. While the professions are well represented, no one of them is overdone.

Minor Civil Divisions.—Table XX gives the population of each county by the minor civil divisions therein. There is on file in this department the complete analysis of the population within each minor civil division for all of the materials shown in the tables. This is especially advantageous to the sociological student and while it is not practical to carry it into the published report, the material will always be available here.

Index of Population.—As was done in case of the census of 1905, so the individual cards made by the enumerators for this census are carefully alliterated and preserved in a vast card index in the department. The index derived from the second census has proven to be of an inestimable value in supplying evidence, ranging from the trivial matter pertaining to the school age of children, to evidence in felonies and in determining the disposition of estates. The information embraced in the third census cards is much more comprehensive and explicit than those of the second census. From the material contained in the index of the third state census a very full and interesting biographical sketch might be written of every individual residing in this state. This index of itself is worth vastly more money than the entire cost of the census.

Conclusion.—One of the important results of the state census is the fact that the results secured by it are at once made available to the public. At this date, thirty-five days later than the date upon which the counties are required by law to return the census to this division, all of the material facts have been published and on this date the completed schedules are being sent to the printer, and the official publication and distribution of them may be expected not later than October.

DOANE ROBINSON,
Superintendent.

Pierre, August 20th, 1915.

*Total population for Irene in Yankton, Turner and Clay counties 394, in 1910 it was 263.

Blank spaces in 1910 census indicate that no return for the specific minor division appears. Utica twp. in 1910 includes State Hospital.

AGRICULTURE.

The statistics of agriculture presented in the following tables are very complete for the rural communities but in many instances the town and city assessors failed wholly or in part to return livestock and garden products for municipalities. These delinquencies are most apparent in the returns for horses, cattle and potatoes.

The number of farms appears to be unduly large compared with the state census of 1905 when reports were made for 52,376 establishments, or the federal census of 1910 which reported upon but 77,644, while we have reports from 101,224 separate establishments. Of the accuracy of our returns there can be no doubt. The schedule used in securing the agricultural statistics arbitrarily covered every sub-division of each section in each congressional township so that no tract escaped attention. Only such places were listed as farms, where livestock was kept and crops produced. All of the lands owned and operated by one person in each township was treated as a single farm.

The most disappointing figure is for the total of hay made in 1914, which indicates a loss of 1,378,189 tons under the crop of 1909. I have no explanation to make for this apparent discrepancy.

The variability of agriculture productions in good and bad years is well illustrated in the table comparing results of three censuses.
